Road to Accreditation Update - Tuesday, April 11, 2017

With less than two weeks until IU School of Medicine's reaccreditation site visit, teams and individuals are making final preparations. Leaders and faculty participating in the site visit have been provided a number of resources and materials, including at-a-glance summary of topics relevant to all site visit participants. This week, site visit session participants are also receiving special preparation binders and the Office of Faculty Affairs and Professional Development is hosting drop-in office hours, which continue through Thursday, April 20.

Do you have questions about reaccreditation and the school's final preparation? This video provides more detail.
